Mr. W. Henderson, of Calgary was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Isbester last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Pfeiffer moved this week into the house owned by Mr. C. E. Neff.

Young Peoples Bridge Club Holds Meeting

The Young Peoples Bridge Club held their weekly meeting in the Chinook Cafe. The honors of the evening were shared by Mr. Fred Vennard and Gus Cook.

Refreshments were served by Misses Mildred Milligan, Joan Bayley, and Messrs. MacBeth and H. Johnston.

U. F. A. Local Meeting

The Annual meeting of the Chinook Local of the U. F. A. was held in the School at Chinook, 3 p. m. and the following officers were elected for 1934: Pres. R. G. Marr; Vice Pres. W. Sellers; Sec. Pres. N. F. Marcy. Trustee to represent the Local on the Co. Operative Soc. N. F. Marcy.

A Junior Seed Growers Club was organized so that considerable Registered Seed will come into the district this year. All farmers should encourage their boys to join.

FRIED OYSTERS

The usual way of dipping oysters for frying, first into eggs then into cracker crumbs is not very successful. The coating comes off and the oysters are usually overcooked in the attempt to brown them. A better way is to flatten them. A better way is to flatten the oysters slightly and lay them in fresh milk. Mix equal parts of flour and sifted cracker crumbs; drain the oysters, dip them into this mixture and fry in very hot, deep fat. Garnish with parsley or lemon.

Pay 85 Cents For Wheat In Ontario

SARNIA, Ont., Feb. 8 (C. P.)—The farmers of the district attracted by the higher price of wheat, are making large deliveries at the local mills. It was reported by one milling company here Thursday that farmers from as far south as Port Lambton were making deliveries of wheat here and were receiving 85 cents a bushel for it.

Milling companies are paying 45 cents a bushel for oats and are at the same time, cleaning No. 1, C. W. oats at 45 cents a bushel in 100 bushel lots. They are also selling wheat as chicken feed at 80 cents. The price of barley and corn remains at 55 and 72 cents a bushel.

Junior Seed Growers Club Formed Here

A meeting of the prospective members of the proposed Junior Seed Growers Club was held in the Chinook School at 3 p. m. under the auspices of the Chinook Local of the U. F. A.

Mr. Stevens, a representative of the Department of Agriculture gave an interesting talk on the benefits to be derived from such an organization. His address was humorous as well as instructive, and was greatly enjoyed by those present. At the close, Bruce Young was appointed chairman pro tem, and the club was organized with the following officers: Pres. Dean Tompkins, Vice Pres. Walter R. Senru, Sec. Pres. James Proudfoot, Club Leader, N. F. Marcy.

The club, at present includes some fifteen members, and invites additional members to join to increase the membership to twenty five which is the maximum for any club. Membership closes March 15.

U. F. A. Lays Resolutions Before Govt

Edmonton, Feb. 6 (C. P.)—Forty-nine resolutions passed at the recent convention of the United Farmers of Alberta were submitted to the government by a delegation from the U. F. A. executive, which met Premier Brownlee and his ministers on Tuesday morning.

The meeting was to continue through Tuesday afternoon. Norman F. Priestley, vice president, headed the delegation. Among the points thus being referred to the government were resolutions favoring a national marketing board; public ownership and control of the proposed central bank; lights on all vehicles on highways; abolition of beer rooms; socialization of unalienated lands and such alienated lands as revert to the crown; and retention of the present strength of the legislature without reduction of seats.

Following the usual procedure, the government received the representation of the U. F. A. executive and noted for further consideration such of the resolutions as were found practicable or were not already being dealt with.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OCCASIONAL WIFE

By
EDNA ROBB WEBSTER
Author of "Joretta," "Lipstick Girl," Etc.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. At a party at an exclusive club Peter entertains Camilla's guests with impersonations. When the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the gaiety, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Avis is stumped and Camilla's mother likewise. Camilla decides that she must leave the home of her adopted parents immediately and go to live with Rose, her sister, who is a file clerk in a business house. They decide to take an apartment. Bowman and Weeks, an advertising agency, where Camilla has submitted herself for work, send for her and tell her they have a new account which requires unusual treatment of juvenile art. To Camilla's surprise she learns that the account is that of her foster father's company, which has decided on an extensive campaign to bolster up lagging business. After a conference with Mr. Bowman, Camilla decides to attempt the work. With ideas running riot in her head she goes home and spends the night sketching. In the morning, armed with her samples she sets out for the agency.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXX

It was a question which girl had received the sudden announcement of Peter's marriage with more disappointment and amazement, Avis or Sylvia. To Avis, however, it was merely another obstacle in the path toward her ambition. To Sylvia, it prefigured a certain finality for the two possibilities she had visualized, and for which she had been playing a double hand. As she exclaimed to her astonished image when she read the announcement in the society column of the morning paper, "Well for crying at the moon! Who woulda thought they could fool everyone like that? Um, um, I guess that lays me out with flowers, all right, either way you look at it. I'll bet the high and mighty Avis Werth feels like a pucker up green apple, herself."

The shrilling of the telephone bell interrupted her monologue. "Um! The green apple herself, I'll bet."

"Yeah, hello," she drawled, and nodded her head with confirmation toward her silent audience of one, in the mirror.

"You've seen the latest news?" inquired Avis.

"I just read it, and as if you read my mind, the phone rings. I guessed it was you right away."

"Clever of you, I'm sure. But you haven't been so clever with Mr. Anson as you expected to be."

"Well, and isn't this good enough proof of the reason why? A new bride—what would you expect of me with such competition as that? I guess it surprised even you, didn't it? Not much chance for either of us, there."

"Either of us?" surprised.

"Well, you know what I mean. No chance for me to vamp him away from the Hoyt girl so you could take him over in sympathy," and she added to herself, "Fine chance you'd have at him if I had got that far!"

"I don't know why not?"

"You don't mean you're not ready to give him up, yet?"

"Why should I? Just because a man is married doesn't mean that he's chained to a life sentence, does it? In fact, this particular situation makes it easier to break up. But I'll take the affair into my own hands."

"But, say," Sylvia objected, "I gotta finish my work for him, even if he's married. I wouldn't be so mean as to cheat a fellow like that when he's done nothing to me. Besides, I have some pride in the ethics of my profession, and my reputation. Models don't desert an employer in the middle of a piece of work."

"Suit yourself about that," Avis agreed indifferently, "but you needn't worry about quitting me in the middle of a piece of work. I won't need your services longer, and if you see a new tenant in Annex Hall soon, don't recognize me."

"Okay with me, Miss Werth. Rent two studios in the Annex Hall, for all I care."

"By the way, you will be wise if you drop your efforts to attract Mr. Anson."

"Say, I'm only too glad not to be under obligation to think up new ways for thawing out that iceberg," she retorted, but her blue eyes twinkled with the thought, "Being under obligation no more, let's see out. But I guess if he is still ripe cherries for you, he is for me, too, your highness!"

But when Sylvia went to Peter's studio on the following day to pose, she experienced a new and kinder interest in the man and his work. She twitted him in her characteristic gay manner.

"So! young man, you've been misrepresenting yourself to me as a bachelor, and all the time you were a married man, with a trusting wife concealed in your private life."

"Well, I guess I've given you no cause for complaint," he laughed easily.

"I'll say you haven't," she admired. "But say, I'd like to see the girl that stirred you up enough to lead you to the marriage license bureau and then keep it a secret."

"You may, any time you wish. I'll have Camilla run in some day and meet you. She would like it, I'm sure."

"Camilla—sweet name. Is she as beautiful as her name sounds?"

"Ever so much more beautiful!" he declared proudly.

Sylvia reflected upon that with haste. "More beautiful than I am?"

"I wouldn't say that—no. But compare you. She is about your size, but has dark eyes and black hair."

"Then I was wasting my time, anyway," she shrugged with good humor. "I might have known a blond gentleman like you would prefer a brunette. Well, good luck to you two, and that means we had better get to work."

"Thanks, yes, it does," Peter replied. "I have to get this thing ready to cast to mold in another week, or I won't be ready for the exhibit, after all."

Several days later, when Sylvia came again to Peter's studio, she observed that the hall was strewn with crates and boxes.

"Someone moving in across the hall?" she asked him.

"Looks like it, doesn't it?"

"Well, I'll be glad to have near neighbors. You're sort of alone up at this end of the hall."

"That's why I took this room. That suite across the hall is twice as large as this and twice as much rent, and I don't think it was likely to be occupied very soon."

"Know who it is?"

"Haven't the slightest idea. Nor do I care. I am going to be so busy for the next month that I can't even say hello to anyone."

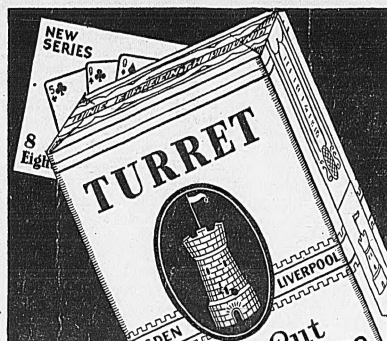

"Oh, yeah," thought Sylvia. "Well, they might say more than hello to you," but she said no more to Peter.

When Camilla telephoned Mr. Bowman on the morning after her first conference with his executives, and announced that she had samples ready to submit to him, he exclaimed with dismay and disappointment.

"But, Miss Hoyt, surely you haven't taken your time, even though we are anxious to have your suggestions as soon as possible."

"That was what I understood," she agreed patiently, "and they are ready now."

"Very well. We shall be glad to see them whenever you can come in." But his voice indicated that he expected to be keenly disappointed, because no one could produce a worthwhile suggestion and the evi-

Not Many Eggs Imported

Canada Able To Produce Enough For Home Needs

Canada does not import many eggs, the domestic hen apparently being able to cater for her own folk. The few we get—3,764 dozen in December, which was considerably above the average of the past year—came mainly from Hong Kong, United States and Australia. The total supply in 1933 was 24,753 dozen. That is, eggs in the shell, for we get frozen and dried eggs from China and the United States to some little extent—36,706 pounds in 1933, which was less than one-third of the 1932 requirement.

Small-sized refrigerator cars, for moving perishable goods in smaller quantities than standard cars, are now being used by railroads.

O Lord, my best desires fulfill And help me to fulfil: Life, health, and comfort to Thy And make Thy pleasure mine. —Wm. Cowper.

What do our weary hearts prove but that other things are sweeter to us than His will, that we have not attained to the full mastery of our true freedom, the full perception of its power, that our selfishness is not yet realized, and its blessedness not yet proved and known. Our consent would turn all our trials into obedience. By consenting we make them our own, and offer them with ourselves again to Him.—H. E. Manning.

Nothing is intolerable that is necessary. Now God hath bound trouble upon thee with a design to try thee, and with purpose to reward and crown thee. These cords thou canst not break; and therefore lie thyself down gently and suffer the hand of God to do what He please.—Jeremy Taylor.

The Unconquered Spirit

(by J. Jackson, Heathdale)

"They try to say my spirit is dead for now I stand with empty hands, all my assets fled. My hair is grey, my shoulders bent from pioneer's toil. From early morn 'til dewy night the smell of new turned soil, I've frozen, I've burned, I've lived, I've learned, 'neath natures smarting rod And while I learned from nature, I saw the works of God."

"Must I rig up the old covered wagon and take what is lawfully mine? The old plow I thought was a relic, is ancient and rusted with time. My youth lies far behind me, my strength matches that of the plow, I've no young woman to help me for time has furrowed her brow.

Why must we trail to the outpost to live our last few years? 'Tis not the thing we have slaved for, I tell you it's hard and it sears.

"We've raised enough to feed thousands, With lean years in between, Can they forget the bounties and praises, bright and green When Billions fought with their backs to the wall in the foulest blight of all I never heard the cannon roar to the rhyme of marching feet! For I heard the bread of millions in the song of rustling wheat

I will not go to the northland, nor is my spirit dead! In planting wheat I reap their scorn. I'll plant a home instead, A place of beauty for all to see, a heritage for those to be, These old plains shall charm once more, the vision I can see I will not trail for wood-d Val's to slash and burn the tree! I'll be content with what I've got, I'll bring the bush to me"

DEPRESSION KILLER

Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine. Attend to your own business and don't spread the gloom that has been told to you.

Learn to tell a story. A well-told story is a wonderful help in these days instead of repeated gossip.

Try to encourage the fellow who comes to you with his hard luck story. Even if you cannot help him financially you can find something cheerful to tell him.

Above all, stop grumbling. If you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself. Constant grumbling just gets to be amusing, so have a good laugh on yourself and start over again.

Squirrel Pelts Used For Money

Rocky Mountain House, Feb. 14—(C. P.) When shoppers go into the majority of stores in this district to buy merchandise these days they don't ask the price in dollars and cents. They say: "How many squirrel skins."

Scarcity of Horses In Spring Forecast

REGINA, Feb. 10, (C. P.)—The possibility that horses for farm work will be scarce in the spring was seen by Dean A. M. Shaw, of the University of Saskatchewan, on Friday.

Farm horses values had been just about doubled in four months, he said, and 24 Eastern horse buyers were now in Western Canada. Animals offered at $30 last fall were now selling for $50 in Saskatchewan.
